

CHOICE AND LEADERSHIP (SEL)

- Determine a focus for your lesson.
- Ask yourself, “How many ways can I teach this concept?”
- Create a list of activities that could effectively teach this concept that is much longer than what can be taught in one class.
- Then present this large group of activities to the students on the board, on note cards, or on a hand out.
- Invite the students to pick their favorite exercises.
- Be flexible and teach those!
- Allow students to lead the exercises where and when it is possible.
